HOUSE BILL NO. 2522

Introduce by CONG. ORLANDO A. FUA, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The municipality of Enrique Villanueva is Siquijor province, is not only difficult to remember and to pronounce but also smacks of imperialistic trimmings. A person by that name once existed in the province of Negros Oriental, but connotes no significant meaning for the municipality.

This municipality was once called a Talingting. Even today with the smack of modernity attaching to the Spanish name Villanueva, Siquijor residents far and wide still call this municipality as Talingting.

The revival of Philippine culture and the ensuing encouragement for such a revival would cast a significant meaning to Siquijor residents, if the name Enrique Villanueva be changed to Talingting. It would give them the perception that the movers for such a revival is dead earnest in their work.

It is therefore urged that this bill be passed.
