Thirteenth Congress

House Bill No. 3284

Introduced by ROGER G. MERCADO

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine National Police Provincial Office situated in Maasin, Southern Leyte has no official name up to this time. It would be appropriate to name it after one of the great sons of Southern Leyte.

An exemplary public servant, Alfredo K. Bantug was a veteran in World War II serving the Maasin Area Command under the Southern Leyte Guerilla Unit. After the war, he was inducted to the military, Captain in the United States Armed Forces in the Far East (USAFFE). He held the distinction of serving as Southern Leyte's first Provincial Governor. Likewise, Alfredo K. Bantug was the undefeated mayor of Maasin, the Capital of Southern Leyte.

His sacrifices and loyalty to the Province of Southern Leyte and to the country as well during the last World War will appropriately be given recognition if the PNP Provincial Office in Maasin, Southern Leyte is named as Camp governor Alfredo K. Bantug.

This act aims to perpetuate the memory of one of the great sons of Southern Leyte.

Early passage of this measure is earnestly requested.
