HOUSE BILL NO. 4392

Introduced by the Honorable Florencio "Bem" G. Noel

EXPLANATORY NOTE

During the Commonwealth era, the Americans introduced the public school system to the Philippines. To meet the need for public school buildings, the Asamblea Filipina (Philippine Assembly), passed as one of its first laws which is Act. No. 1801 framed by Nueva Ecija representative Isauro Gabaldon.

Taken from the surname of its principal advocate, it came to be known as the "Gabaldon Act of 1907," and all the school buildings built in the next two decades during the American period were called "Gabaldon Schoolhouses."

These "Gabaldon Schoolhouses" have withstood the elements and until the present are still being used by public schools throughout the country.

This bill seeks to rehabilitate and repair the "Gabaldon Schoolhouses" nationwide to preserve its historical significance as well as address the ever growing need for educational facilities.

Approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
