HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

House Bill No. 1897

Introduced by Representative Ben P. Evardone

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Studies show that in the last ten years, around 4,000 experienced Filipino teachers have left the country and decided to teach in other parts of the world. That figure does not even include those teachers who went to other countries to become domestic helpers, care givers, nurse aides, etc. This leaves tens of thousands of young Filipinos bereft of their chance to enjoy their right to have quality education.

There is a need to intensify recruitment of Filipinos to become elementary and secondary teachers most especially in far-flung areas and indigenous communities. Moreover, better training for these teachers is required as it is what the teachers know that will be passed on to their students. Hence, it is also of great importance that the government pays close attention to strengthening our teacher preparation programs.

To help the national government meet the need to recruit and train highly qualified teachers, this bill seeks to mandate the government to make limited and targeted investments that-

- (a) Encourage more institutions of higher education that operate teacher preparation programs to adopt the practices and strategies of the best programs;
- (b) Encourage a more diverse mix of Filipinos to enter teaching and complete high- quality preparation programs; and
- (c) Encourage more Filipinos to serve as teachers in indigent communities.

Trends show that by 2015, around 18 million teachers will be needed by the first world countries across the globe. And needless to say, many are already eyeing on this need of other parts of the world. But we must also be reminded that we, as a nation, also have needs of our own.

Hence, immediate approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

BEN P. EVARDONE
Representative, Lone District of Eastern Samar
