HOUSE BILL NO. 3261

INTRODUCED BY REP. JOSEPH VICTOR G. EJERCITO

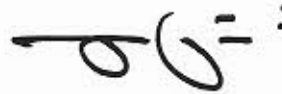

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article II, Section 27 of the 1987 Constitution provides that "The State shall maintain honesty and integrity in the public service and take positive and effective measures against graft and corruption." A clean, honest and efficient bureaucracy is an important component in the provision of good and effective government.

Graft and corruption in government imposes an informal tax burden that affects the efficiency of private sector enterprises and private markets. It is an insidious influence that tears at the moral fabric of the nation and leaves debilitating effects on productive economic undertakings. The drive against graft and corruption in government however is burdened with a serious incentive incompatibility. This is the fact that those who have knowledge of any acts of malfeasance by government officials and employees are deterred from reporting such acts because of their vulnerability to subsequent acts of reprisal.

This bill addresses the situation with a provision that will grant rewards and provide protection to individuals who will report acts of malfeasance in government offices.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate approval of this bill is earnestly requested.
