First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 189

Introduced by Rep. Winston "Winnie" Castelo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Unlike any other noble profession, teaching is perhaps the type that calls for the need that teachers become the role models themselves.

To achieve this end, teachers in either public or private should be enabled or better still, empowered to lead simple but decent lives free from the dangers or risks of having to borrow money or financial resources from 'loan sharks' who now have run a profitable cottage industry catering to the rather sad socio-economic plight of a sizeable population in the teaching profession.

It is the intent of this bill to help the teachers sector cope with hard times given certain hardships that they are prone of finding themselves in. In other words, their improved salaries and allowances have not truly reached a desired point where there will be no need of them looking for sources of funds through loans or lending schemes that result, most often, in them being badly victimized by loan sharks.

Under this proposal therefore, the Social Security System is authorized to open a special loan window that would cater to granting financial aid or assistance to teachers in the private sector who wish to avail of loans at interest rate comparatively lower than prevailing interest rates.

The immediate passage of this bill is strongly sought, hence this submission.
