SIXTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 1195

INTRODUCED BY HON. MARCELINO "MARCY" R. TEODORO

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The dismal state of our river system, particularly in Metro Manila and other urban areas in the country, should demand immediate action from the government.

Although the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and other concerned agencies have set in place necessary projects and programs to confront this dilemma, they are not able to fully solve this given its magnitude and complexity and the fact that the agencies are also saddled with other similarly important concerns.

The purpose of this bill, therefore, is to focus on the preservation, protection and development of all rivers, river systems and natural waterways, by tapping local government units to undertake the same, through creation, within their respective jurisdictions, of a River Development Authority, that shall be empowered to critically look into possible ways to restore our river systems to their once pristine condition.

Under the measure, said River Development Authority shall be given powers to do whatever is necessary to revive our dying river systems. Specifically, it is given broad powers to do the following:

1. Prepare a master plan to preserve, protect, development and exploit all rivers, river systems and natural waterways;
2. Conduct engineering surveys of rivers, river systems and natural waterways, assessing and monitoring water quality, pinpointing pollution sources and identifying the rivers that need to be developed for exploitation and rehabilitation;
3. Initiate and facilitate planning, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of pertinent projects with positive impact on environment and development, including dredging, widening and deepening of river channels and improvement of river alignments;
4. Prioritize rivers positively identified for development and rehabilitation, and on the basis thereof, prepare a river-specific plan of operation for the improvement, development and rehabilitation of environmentally degraded rivers;

5. Initiate funding arrangements with local and foreign donors, to finance priority development projects and provide direct funding of minor initiatives expected to create a positive impact on the environment in the projected area;
6. Develop information materials to ensure a high degree of environmental awareness in government agencies, organizations and the general public;
7. Make recommendations to the proper agencies offering financial support, technical and physical assistance about the level of priority to be accorded river systems development and rehabilitation projects;
8. Coordinate and integrate such projects or operations of local governments, agencies, public corporations and, where clearly necessary and feasible, those of private entities, as will bear directly upon the plans and activities of the Authority so as to make possible an intensive development and rehabilitation of the rivers, river systems and natural waterways in the country within the context of the master plan;
9. Set up a compact and well-trained staff for effective liaison and consultation or joint planning and implementation with government and private entities;
10. Make an annual report to the Secretary of the Interior and Local Government of its activities, including those done in collaboration with the various government and private entities engaged in the implementation of the projects and programs, which shall include, among others, a comparison of the developmental and rehabilitation targets as set for the year ending and the extent to which actual accomplishments measure up to such targets, and the appropriate administrative and legislative recommendations.

Localizing the approach to this problem is the only way government can creatively implement programs that will truly work. Immediate enactment of this measure is earnestly sought.
