HOUSE BILL NO. 2131

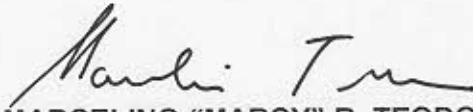

INTRODUCED BY HON. MARCELINO "MARCY" R. TEODORO

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The teaching profession is a fulfilling, and at the same time, a demanding one. It is referred to as a calling, since much is expected from educators and only a handful of individuals heed such call. Aside from good interpersonal skills necessary in dealing with children other than your own, teachers are also expected to devote a great deal of their time and attention in preparing lessons and instructional materials, and calculating grades. On top of other responsibilities that come with being educators, they have to contend with financial troubles as well, since most of time the remuneration is not commensurate with the requirements of the job.

Cognizant of the State's responsibilities of providing incentives to teachers as well as in recognition of their dedicated service, this bill seeks to exempt the children of teachers and employees in public institutions of higher learning from paying tuition and other related fees. When implemented, this measure is expected to have an immediate impact on the state of Philippine education because educators can now focus on their duties once one of their crucial concerns, that of providing quality education to their children, is taken care of.

Thus, in view of the foregoing, approval of this bill is earnestly sought.
