

Sixteenth Congress
Republic of the Philippines
First Regular Session

Introduced by Honorable Samuel D. Pagdilao

HOUSE BILL NO. 2637

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The "Barangay Tanods" are considered as basically the primary frontliners of our State, responding to any problems with regard to peace and order, or in helping with disaster management in the community, and even to the proper implementation of national or local laws. These individuals even augment the Philippine National Police as the first responders to crimes within their respective barangays.

These Barangay Tanods are, oftentimes, volunteers, whose remuneration for the services they have rendered to their Barangay are in the form of allowances sourced from availability of local government funds. It is about time that our State shows some gratitude to these selfless individuals to reward them for their services to the public.

In view of the foregoing, the State recognizes the integral role of the Barangay Tanods by improving their welfare by giving them additional benefits and incentives such as health and medical, death and burial, medical, comprehensive insurance, monthly hazard pay, and such other incentives that a normal government worker should received. This bill aims to do this giving the Barangay Tanods such additional benefits to improve their welfare and motivate them more in their service to the people.

Immediate approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

SAMUEL D. PAGDILAO
