AN ACT AMENDING REPUBLIC ACT NO. 3019, ALSO KNOWN AS "THE ANTI-GRAFT AND CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT", TO CRIMINALIZE GRAFT AND CORRUPT PRACTICES IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The evils of graft and corruption have always plagued both the public and private sectors of our society in the Philippines. "Graft and corruption in our society weakens our democracy and the integrity of our various institutions, leads to violations of human rights, distorts markets, prevents the proper delivery of basic services to the people, increases inequality and injustice in the society and allows organized crime, terrorism and other threats to human security to flourish."¹

In order to address this problem, the United Nations adopted an instrument to address globally the problem of graft and corruption. The United Nations Convention Against Corruption (UNCAC) provides the clear message that the international community is determined to prevent and control corruption.

Article 21 of UNCAC particularly states:

Each State Party shall consider adopting such legislative and other measures as may be necessary to establish as criminal offences, when committed intentionally in the course of economic, financial or commercial activities:

(a) The promise, offering or giving, directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage to any person who directs or works, in any capacity, for a private sector entity, for the person himself or herself or for another person, in order that he or she, in breach of his or her duties, act or refrain from acting;

(b) The solicitation or acceptance, directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage by any person who directs or works, in any capacity, for a private sector entity, for the person himself or herself or for another person, in order that he or she, in breach of his or her duties, act or refrain from acting.

¹Kofi A. Annan, Foreword of UN Secretary General in the United Nations Convention Against Corruption (UNCAC) which was signed by the Philippines in November 2006.

The Philippines currently has no laws that specifically penalize corruption in the private sector. Corruption has always been associated with the government. People always see that corruption is only prevalent in government offices, agencies and departments. Public officials are the ones who abuse their power and position to gain advantage. However, it is forgotten that graft and corruption is not limited in the government sector. Graft and corruption occurs and thrives because of the consciousness of the people engage in it, and the people who allow it to occur just because everyone is involved in it. Many Filipinos have been born during times when graft and corruption has already been prevalent in the society. When government officials are being prosecuted for committing graft and corruption, many would say "eh sino ba ang di gumagawa?" Such remark shows that the Philippine society recognizes the existence of graft and corruption and somehow has accepted it already. Thus, this reality results to lack of political and moral will of all Filipinos comprising our nation to fight graft and corruption.

Graft and corruption occurs in private sector as well. It is a reality that people use money, position, or any advantage as an inducement or reward in order to get what they want. These activities are considered forms of graft and corruption. In line with the thrust of UNCAC, now is the right time to amend R.A. 3019 or the "Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act" to include a provision that will penalize corruption in the private sector. In doing this, a clear message is being sent out that graft and corruption is prohibited in any sector of the society. All Filipinos are part of the fight against graft and corruption.

Furthermore, there is a need to increase the fines and penalties for violations of Anti-Graft and Corrupt Practices Act in order to deter people from committing such acts. The period before acts committed in violation of R.A. No. 3019 prescribe must be lengthened to ensure that the violators could not escape the consequences of their illegal acts by fleeing or hiding for a long period of time. Also, a provision stating that when the violator is not within the Philippines, the prescription of the crime committed does not run.

Lastly, there is a need for all heads of government offices, agencies, departments as well as heads of corporations and businesses to make reports showing advantages received which are allowed and permitted under this law and to enable the Office of the Ombudsman to inspect, copy and reproduce such reports for reference, conduct of studies and adoption of other measures for corruption prevention.

In view of the foregoing, immediate passage of the bill is earnestly sought.
