HOUSE BILL NO. _____

Introduced by Congressman Alfredo D. Vargas III

EXPLANATORY NOTE

To ensure the quality of frontline services and the facilitation of good governance in the country, the Philippine Government must employ civil servants who exude the highest sense of honesty, integrity, and competence. Outstanding human resource translates to outstanding public service.

Rule 10 of the Revised Rules on Administrative Cases in the Civil Service lists conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude as a grave offense punishable by dismissal from the civil service.

This bill seeks to require all government employees to provide notice on any criminal charges or conviction filed against them to the head of their respective department of agency. If not complied with, the civil servant shall be subject to a fine of not less than Php10,000.00 and suspension from service, without compensation, for a period of not less than six months.

Employees of the government need to protect not only the integrity of their personnel but also that of the Philippine State. To elevate the quality of government human resource and guarantee excellent governance, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
