

Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Sixteenth Congress
Third Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 6440

Introduced by Honorable Karlo Alexei B. Nograles

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to create the Department of Sports, the government entity primarily responsible for implementing policies on the promotion and development of sports and health fitness programs in the country.

On January 24, 1990, Congress enacted Republic Act No. 6847, otherwise known as the "Philippine Sports Commission Act" which created the Philippine Sports Commission (PSC). RA 6847 mandated the PSC to provide the leadership, formulate the policies and set the priorities and direction of all national amateur sports promotion and development, particularly giving emphasis on grass-roots participation; encourage wide participation of all sectors, government and private, in amateur sports promotion and development; and supplement government appropriations for sports promotion and development.

After more than 20 years since the creation of the PSC, there is much to be desired in the state of Philippine sports. Over the years, the state of Philippine sports appears to have worsened rather than improved. Since Mansueto Velasco won a silver medal in boxing during the 1996 Atlanta Olympics, the Philippines has not won a single medal in the succeeding editions of the Summer Olympics. When the Philippines won its first ever overall championship in the Southeast Asian Games during the 2005 edition held in Manila, Philippine sports seemed to have reached its threshold. Unfortunately, the experiences and the lessons learned in earning that victory were not sustained.

The Philippines is rich in talent as can be proven by the many sports heroes that the country has produced in various sports disciplines. Arguably, the most recognizable Filipino today is a sportsman, the Honorable Emmanuel D. Pacquiao, who has brought pride to the country with his many victories in the boxing ring. Filipinos are also known for our passion for sports. With the many sporting events, whether local or international, being held in the country in recent years, Filipinos have impressed foreign sports personalities and sports associations and federations with our remarkable achievements.

This measure intends to address the various challenges that confront Philippine sports. This bill proposes the creation of a Department of Sports, a cabinet-level agency that will provide leadership in the promotion and development of sports in the country and set the parameters to address the needs of our athletes, coaches, trainers and sports officials. The Department of Sports will be responsible for promulgating policies that will help the country improve its performance in international competitions. Equally important is its role in finding solutions to the problems besetting Philippine sports including the lack of a comprehensive national sports program, the need to enhance the partnership with various sectors involved in sports, obsolete training methods, lack of modern and high quality training facilities, equipment, and sports venues.

It is now high time for the government to prioritize sports in the national agenda, and consider sports as an integral factor in nation building. The approval of this proposed measure is a step in the right direction.

In view of the foregoing, passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
