SEVENTEENTH CONGRESS
Second Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 6878

Introduced by HON. LUIS RAYMUND "LRAY" F. VILLAFUERTE, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

One factor of road accidents is driver fatigue—more specifically, drowsiness. Long drives can be especially dangerous as drivers are prone to doze off and lose concentration, mostly during night. The American Academy of Sleep Medicine even likened drowsy driving to driving under influence, saying that it “is similar to alcohol in how it compromises driving ability by reducing alertness”¹. Studies have shown that at least a quarter of road accidents that happen are due to driver fatigue².

This bill intends to prevent future road accidents caused by such and hopes to serve as an encouragement for self-discipline among our citizens by proposing to penalize continuous driving for more than 12 hours in a 24-hour period. Passenger buses are especially prone to committing this as they cater to popular tourist destinations that are 6 to 13 hours away by land transportation. The bill also aims to penalize companies or institutions that allow their drivers to drive on duty without rest and driving shifts.

The approval of this bill is earnestly sought.

LUIS RAYMUND "LRAY" F. VILLAFUERTE, JR.
