HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City
EIGHTEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session
HOUSE BILL NO. 3057

---

Introduced by REPRESENTATIVE LEONARDO L. BABASA, JR.

---

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to establish the National Research and Development Authority, defining its powers and functions and appropriating funds for its operation.

Research and development is vital in fostering economic growth and encouraging technological innovation and entrepreneurship. It enhances the knowledge base of the research institutions and industries, stimulates high value-added research and development and encourages research and development collaboration. With this in mind, there is a need to harmonize the research and development undertakings of the government to minimize, if not totally avoid, duplication of research and development activities and wasting public funds and scarce resources.

The government needs to maximize the talents and knowledge of many Filipino researchers and scientists to significantly contribute to the progress of the country. By harmonizing the research and development programs of the government, it will ensure the proper use of scarce public resources to address societal problems that directly affect the people like urban congestion, poverty, food shortage, disasters, and disease. By encouraging research and development collaboration, the business or private sector would realize the usefulness of the government research and development activities to their respective industries.

Under the proposed measure, the National Research and Development Authority will be established and mandated to: 1) coordinate the research and development activities of departments, agencies, academe, business sector and non-government organizations; 2) recommend and appropriate regular and permanent institutional arrangement for coordinating and overseeing the allocation of research and development budgets to government departments, agencies and state colleges and universities; 3) recommend a system of establishing priority research and development areas where government funding should be directed; 4) institute appropriate measures to establish a monitoring and evaluation system for both public and private research and development institutions that use public funds; 5) recommend mechanisms, structures and measures to encourage greater private research and development funding as well as international funding for research and development initiatives; 6) provide an overall strategy for the use of science in research and development activities; and 7) undertake, assist or promote scientific and industrial research.

This bill also aims to create a strong link among the government research and development institutions, non-government research and science organizations and their counterparts in the business sector.

In view of the foregoing, passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
