HOUSE BILL NO. 8036

Introduced by REP. FRANCISCO “KIKO” B. BENITEZ, Ph.D.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution recognizes the role of sports in fostering nationalism, social transformation and human development (Section 17, Article II). In his speech during the opening ceremony of the 2018 Palarong Pambansa, President Rodrigo Duterte echoed this notion and told student-athletes that competing in the Palaro beckons “the beginning of your greater participation in nation-building.” “Your ability to balance academics and other interests measures your aptitude for skills such as multi-tasking, time management and decision-making – skills that you will need as you take on greater responsibilities in the future,” the President said.¹

Indeed, the discipline and diligence that balancing academics and athletics requires and instills in the youth prepare them for a successful career as athletes or sports and fitness professionals. It is critical therefore to provide an enabling environment for young Filipinos with athletic potential to develop the skills and values necessary to become great athletes who bring honor to our country.

The recently signed Republic Act No. 11470 provides for this enabling environment, creating the National Academy of Sports (NAS) System to establish high school campuses around the country with world-class sports facilities offering free education and training for student-athletes. The flagship campus will be located in the New Clark City Sports Complex in Tarlac, the site of the 30th Southeast Asian Games last year.

The next NAS campus to rise should be in the Visayas. And there is no better location for a high school for sports in Visayas than Negros Occidental.

Negros Occidental is hosting the Palarong Pambansa for the sixth time in 2021, holding the record of hosting the most number of Palaro events.² Negros Occidental athletes have also made a name for themselves in international and national sports competitions.

Mansueto “Onyok” Velasco, a native of Bago City, Negros Occidental, earned the country a silver medal in boxing in the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, while his elder brother Roel had won a bronze medal also in boxing in the 1992 Olympic Games in Barcelona.

Athletes from Negros Occidental, led by 2016 Rio Olympian Roden Ladon (also a Bago City native), also scored medals in the 30th SEA Games. Ladon had won a silver medal in the 2018

Asian Games in Indonesia. Meanwhile, Sander Severino from Silay City won two golds in chess in the 2018 Asian Para Games hosted also by Indonesia.

Meanwhile, Negrosanon student-athletes have shined in the Palarong Pambansa. In the 2019 Palarong Pambansa, Bacolod City's Trexie dela Torre and Jamela de Asis set new record highs in long jump and shot put, respectively, and Silay's Alexi Cabayaran broke a five-year record in swimming (200-meter freestyle).³ Negros Occidental is consistently among top performing provinces in the Palaro; in 2019, Negrosanon athletes bagged a total of 79 medals – 28 gold, 17 silver, and 34 bronze medals.

An NAS campus in Negros Occidental will cultivate the talent of young Negrosanons to become accomplished professional athletes and raise Filipino pride. But perhaps more importantly, a dedicated sports program, with a strong values formation component, will divert young people from vices that would otherwise occupy their time and attention.

In view of the foregoing, the enactment of this measure is earnestly sought.
