Republic Act No. 6539, a.k.a. the Anti-Carnapping Act of 1972, was enacted to curb theft of motor vehicles. Apparently, this law has considerably failed to address this problem as carnapping has become even more rampant over the past years.

This bill amends the present law as it eliminates the defense of good faith on the part of a person who may have purchased a stolen or carnapped motor vehicle. Thus, a carnapped motor vehicle, even if found in the possession of a purchaser in good faith, may still be rightfully recovered by the registered owner thereof.

This bill is a consolidation of related bills submitted during the Tenth Congress before the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, Revision of Codes and Laws, which the undersigned chaired.
