First Regular Session

House Bill No. 1520

Introduced by TUCP Party-List
Rep. RAYMOND DEMOCRITO C. MENDOZA

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Philippine Constitution affirms "labor as a primary social and economic force" and mandates the State to "protect the rights of workers and promote their welfare." Presidential Decree No. 442, as amended, otherwise known as the Labor Code of the Philippines, declares a State policy to "afford protection to labor."

One such protection to labor is to satisfy their claims against the employer's business. Republic Act No. 6715 provides in Article 110 of the Labor Code that workers' unpaid wages and benefits and/or money claims enjoy preference over all other claims of creditors and the government.

However, Supreme Court decisions interpreting Article 110 of the Labor Code vary. Hence, this bill seeks to institutionalize jurisprudence upholding the principle laid down on workers' money claims being given the first lien in case of business bankruptcy.

Workers are disadvantaged even more when employers do not pay their earned wages, benefits, and other entitlements. Therefore, such money claims and entitlements should not require a formal declaration of bankruptcy or insolvency to save workers and their families from slipping into the quagmire of mere subsistence or poverty.

The proposed amendment will be consistent with the constitutional mandate of complete protection for labor.
