NINETEENTH CONGRESS
First Regular Session
HOUSE BILL NO. 1831

Introduced by REP. RUWEL PETER S. GONZAGA

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The children are one of the nation's best assets. However, they are also our most vulnerable human resource. Their susceptibility to danger cannot be discounted hence their protection should be a topmost priority.

It is disheartening to note that syndicates who prey on children for unscrupulous or criminal activities go unchecked. Although anti-human trafficking laws have been passed, still prevention seems to be the better option in dealing with organized crime engaged in the illegal trafficking of persons. This sends panic-stricken parents helpless. While some missing children may have been returned to their families, a larger number are out there exposed to danger, exploited, or worst killed and can no longer be located.

Thus, in cognizance with the Constitutional mandate of promoting and protecting the physical, moral and spiritual well being of the youth, and in response to the need for a strategic procedure to facilitate prompt recovery of missing children, this bill proposes to establish a National Center for Missing Children which shall be tasked to provide information and coordinate public and private initiatives towards reuniting missing children with their families.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.

RUWEL PETER S. GONZAGA

- c) Coordinate with public and private entities like the media and various non-government organizations to locate and unite missing children with their families;
- d) Disseminate information relating to innovative and model programs, services and legislation that will benefit missing and exploited children;
- e) Conduct national incidence studies annually to determine the actual number of children reported missing, the number of children who are victims of abduction, and number of children who are recovered each year;
- f) Seek technical and logistical assistance through public and private grants which shall be used to:
 - i. Educate parents, children and local communities in ways to prevent the abduction and sexual exploitation of children;
 - ii. Provide information to assist in the location and recovery of missing children
 - iii. Aid communities in the collection of materials which would be useful in the identification of missing children;
 - iv. Increase knowledge of and develop effective treatment pertaining to the psychological consequences to the family of the missing child; and
 - v. Collect detailed data on the actual investigative practices utilized by law enforcement agencies in missing children's cases.
- g) Analyze, compile, publish and disseminate an annual summary of recently completed researches and demonstration projects relating to missing children with particular emphasis on:
 - i. Effective models of national and local coordination and cooperation in locating missing children;
 - ii. Effective educational methods designed to promote community awareness of the problem to prevent abduction or sexual exploitation of children; and
 - iii. Effective programs which provide counselling and treatment to families of missing children or to children who had been victims of abduction or sexual exploitation
- h) Perform such other powers as may be necessary for the effective implementation of this Act.

SECTION 5. Executive Council. – The powers and functions of the NCMC shall be exercised by the Executive Council, hereinafter referred to as the Council, which shall be composed of the following:

- a) Secretary of the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD), as Chairman;
- b) Secretary of Justice (DOJ);
- c) Secretary of Education (DepEd);
