EXPLANATORY NOTE

Considering the fundamental premium that Filipinos place on acquiring a college diploma and the hardship that millions of Filipino parents go through just to send their children to college, whether in public or private colleges and universities, this bill seeks to provide an incentive for college students to finish their four-year courses and enhance the capacity or competencies of graduates of four-year degree programs by automatically entitling them to a sub-professional civil service eligibility.

This Act is also intended to enable current but efficient, loyal, dependable and deserving government employees without civil service eligibility to acquire job security.

It will result in expanding their life choices and chances and enrich their capabilities to innovate, generate work for themselves and others in the government, and move themselves and other Filipino families out of debt and poverty.

Section 3B, Article IX of the 1987 Constitution provides:

"The Civil Service Commission, as the central personnel agency of the Government, shall establish a career service and adopt measures to promote morale, efficiency, integrity, responsiveness, progressiveness, and courtesy in the civil service. It shall strengthen the merit and reward system, integrate all human resources development programs for all levels and ranks, and institutionalize a management climate conducive to public accountability."
