

Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Quezon City, Metro Manila

Nineteenth Congress
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 4640

Introduced by Representative Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The amendment of the National Defense Act of 1935 is listed as among the priorities of the present administration.

In 1935, the National Assembly passed Commonwealth Act No. 1, otherwise known as the National Defense Act. The purpose of the law is the creation of the Philippine Army back when the country was a self-governing Commonwealth, a transition government before the granting of the Philippine independence from foreign rule.

The 87-year-old law remains the primary legislation that governs the defense and security of the country. However, the challenges of the new millennium are different from those of the 20th century. The security environment is much more complex as population continues to grow and borders continue to change. The rapid advances in technology are another defining characteristic of this era of constant change.

A fundamental change is necessary to meet the range of challenges. This bill therefore seeks to provide for a change in the military and the national security structures that is more responsive to current and future security threats to the country's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

The measure is an integration of the various bills filed since the 13th Congress.

The passage of the bill is earnestly sought.
