HOUSE BILL NO. 9445

Introduced by Representative Joseph Gilbert F. Violago

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The State shall protect and advance the right of the people to a balanced and healthful ecology in accord with the rhythm and harmony of nature. (Article II, Section 16)

The Talavera Watershed Forest Reserve (TWFR) was proclaimed on December 12, 1938, by virtue of Proclamation No. 350, issued by former President Manuel L. Quezon. In 2018, it was placed under the protection of Republic Act No. 7586, as amended by Republic Act 11038, as an initial component. The watershed reservation covers a total area of approximately 34,000 hectares, where a vast portion of its land area is located in the Municipalities of Carranglan, Lupao, Pantabangan, and San Jose City in the Province of Nueva Ecija. It is situated in the northern reaches of Nueva Ecija and straddling the Carraballo mountain range to its west.¹

More than half of the total area is dominantly covered by brush/shrubland or wooded grassland. Regarding the wildlife species, it is home to 181 plant species, wherein 39% of all plants are documented as endemic. Thus, to prevent the extinction of threatened and endangered species, there is a need to introduce management interventions to ensure that forest/vegetative cover will be enhanced; thus, improving the wildlife habitat said species.²

Likewise, while various wildlife species are found in the protected area, some are already considered to be critically endangered because of the continued destruction of their natural habitats. These species include the Philippine Monkey, wild pig, wild deer, wild cat, wild rooster, and the monitor lizard. Other threatened species include the fruit bat, the Philippine wild duck, crow, Black Nape Oriole, Philippine Woodpecker, and Philippine Wild Parrot.³ While the PCFWR is already an incredible hotspot of a myriad of flora and fauna, there is much more to discover and protect.

The TWFR is one of the major headwaters of the Pampanga River Basin. It is one of the major sources of irrigation waters for tens of thousands of hectares of rice/farmlands in Nueva Ecija.⁴ It also provides gainful income to a significant number of households, as well as water supply to the populace. It also plays a crucial role in the development in the province – which is a major producer of agricultural products such as rice and onion.

However, the TWFR is susceptible to landslides and soil erosion, earthquake, flooding, and fire. Other issues and concerns include declining forest cover, lack of supply of water during dry season, unregulated ecotourism visits, a need for a comprehensive biodiversity assessment, climate change hazards, unsustainable livelihood sources, and much more.⁵

Lastly, the operation of the TWFR is primarily governed by a management board – the highest policy making body of the forest reserve. However, it should be noted that more technical and field personnel are required, as all staff positions are by designation and only temporary in nature.⁶ There is also a need to sustainably finance its operations, as the TWFR struggled to do the same in the past.

This proposed measure, therefore, seeks to categorize the Talavera Watershed Forest Reserve in the Province of Nueva Ecija as a Protected Area under the category of Protected Landscape pursuant to Republic Act No. 7586 as amended by Republic Act No. 11038, otherwise known as the Expanded National Integrated Protected Areas System Act of 2018. This is to secure for the present and future generations of Filipinos the perpetual existence of all flora and fauna within the watershed reserve by the proper administration, management, and development of the area. Its legislation from a forest reserve to a protected landscape is crucial for climate resiliency and the preservation of its rich biodiversity. More importantly, the conservation of the area shall redound to the benefit of the people.

The Talavera Protected Landscape (TPL) shall be under the management of the Protected Area Management Board (PAMB), which shall be established to serve as the highest policy-making body for the protected area and shall promote partnership, participation, cooperation and coordination with local communities and civil society organizations. The PAMB shall exercise powers and functions pursuant to the declared policy set forth in the proposed measure. Other key provisions include the establishment of the Protected Management Office (PAMO) to be headed by the Protected Area Superintendent (PASu). Finally, a trust fund to be known as the Talavera Protected Landscape Integrated Protected Area Fund shall be established to be used to finance the projects for the benefit of the area and its abundant natural resources, and the people.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
