HOUSE BILL NO. 1336

Introduced by Representative Roman T. Romulo

EXPLANATORY NOTE

It is stated in our Constitution that the arts and letters shall enjoy the patronage of the State. Towards this end, the State shall conserve, promote, and popularize the nation's historical and cultural heritage and resources, as well as artistic creations. The State shall also promote the moral and intellectual well-being of the people; elevate the literacy level of every Filipino; and recognize the vital role of knowledge and information in nation-building.

In this light, this bill seeks to establish the Charter of the National Library of the Philippines. The National Library of the Philippines, as it is known today, dates back to August 12, 1887, where its precursor, the Museo-Biblioteca de Filipinas, was established through a royal decree. Throughout the decades, it has been operating without an original charter. Various laws were enacted which only touched upon the nomenclature of the National Library. Evidently, there exists a need for the Philippines to be able to serve the demands of our rich history and our people.

The International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA) and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) define a public library as "an organization established, supported and funded by the community, either through local, regional or national government or through some other form of community organization. It provides access to knowledge, information and works of the imagination through a range of resources and services and is equally available to all members of the community regardless of race, nationality, age, gender, religion, language, disability, economic, employment status and educational attainment" (Gill, 2001). It exists to serve communities. It is a "democratic equalizer, open to all and providing access to information that helps people improve their individual, family, and community lives (Scott, 2011)." In many jurisdictions, public library services contribute to youth development community health, agriculture, and community and economic well-being. Aptly put, the IFLA UNESCO Public Manifesto says: "The public library, the local gateway to knowledge, provides a basic condition for lifelong learning, independent decision-making and cultural development of the individual and social groups" (Elbert and Atuti, 2011).

The National Library of the Philippines (NLP) is the official repository of the printed and recorded cultural heritage of the country and other intellectual, literary, and information sources. It is only right that the State endeavors to continuously develop and enhance its library facilities, relevant library resources, and dynamic services that contribute to the intellectual, social, and cultural development of the Filipino society.

This bill effectively addresses the realities that have plagued the NLP for decades such as the small fund allocation for public libraries, the lack of public librarians, lack of infrastructures and facilities, as well as learning resources. This representation believes that the development of the NLP, as an integral institution for lifelong learning, as well as the 1,455 public libraries it currently assists and the 40,000 public libraries which are yet to be established and affiliated with the NLP, are intricately linked to the economic, social, and educational development of our country. Through this measure, we are assured that our libraries will not merely build collections or services. Rather, the libraries that we will establish will effectively build communities. Our support only serves to benefit the millions of Filipinos across the country.

In view of the foregoing, the approval of the proposed measure is earnestly requested.
