

Republic of the Philippines
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TWENTIETH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 3000

Introduced by REPRESENTATIVE JONATHAN KEITH T. FLORES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The creation of the Department of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (DFAR) aligns with long-standing calls for a more specialized and science-driven approach to managing the Philippines' rich but vulnerable aquatic ecosystems. Research shows that the country sits at the apex of the Coral Triangle, recognized as the global center of marine biodiversity. However, overfishing, habitat degradation, and climate change have placed immense pressure on these resources. Studies such as Tolentino-Zondervan (2022) highlight that sustainable fishery management is essential not only for environmental protection but also for achieving socio-economic goals like food security and poverty alleviation. The DFAR's mandate reflects these priorities by emphasizing development, regulation, and conservation in coordination with other agencies and local government units.

Evidence from community-based fisheries management models in the Philippines suggests that decentralization and local participation improve compliance and stewardship. The DFAR's joint management approach with LGUs for municipal waters is supported by findings that local governance fosters better resource protection and more equitable benefit-sharing. Moreover, the department's role in rationalizing blue economy activities is backed by recent policy studies that advocate for integrated marine spatial planning and inclusive governance to balance competing interests—from tourism and energy to biotechnology and conservation.

The proposed Act establishes the Department of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (DFAR) as the primary national body tasked with overseeing the development, management, and regulation of the country's fisheries and aquatic resources. This includes not only fish and marine life but also the ecosystems and activities that affect them. The DFAR is mandated to work closely with the Department of Environment and Natural Resources and other agencies to ensure that its policies are aligned with national goals for environmental protection and sustainable resource use.

In light of the foregoing, the immediate and favorable passage of this bill is respectfully sought.
