AN ACT
ESTABLISHING NATIONAL PREVENTIVE MECHANISM (NPM) IN COMPLIANCE
WITH THE OPTIONAL PROTOCOL TO THE CONVENTION AGAINST TORTURE
AND OTHER CRUEL, INHUMAN OR DEGRADING TREATMENT OR PUNISHMENT
(OPCAT) AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Article II, Section 11 of the 1987 Constitution declares it a State policy of the Republic of the Philippines to value the dignity of every human person and to guarantee full respect for human rights. In line with this policy, the Republic of the Philippines is either a State Party to or, in the case of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), has adopted various international human rights instruments and conventions that prohibit the use of torture and other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment. These include the International Convention on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) and the United Nations Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (UNCAT).

Furthermore, the Republic of the Philippines acceded to the Optional Protocol to the Convention Against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (OPCAT) on April 17, 2012, which requires under Part I, Article 3 thereof, that each State Party thereto "shall set up, designate or maintain at the domestic level one or several visiting bodies for the prevention of torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment." More specifically, Part IV, Article 17 stated that "[e]ach State Party shall maintain, designate or establish, at the latest one year after the entry into force of the present Protocol or of its ratification or accession, one or several independent national preventive mechanisms for the prevention of torture at the domestic level. Mechanisms established by decentralized units may be designated as national preventive mechanisms for the purposes of the present Protocol if they are in conformity with its provisions." This mechanism is referred to as a National Preventive Mechanism (NPM).

It has been more than 15 years since the Philippines acceded to the OPCAT, but the Philippines still does not have an NPM. Consequently, the Philippines is on the list of States whose compliance with Part IV, Article 17 of the OPCAT is substantially overdue. Ultimately, this Bill will ensure risks to the commission of torture and other cruel, inhumane, and degrading treatment or punishment are eliminated.

This bill seeks to establish an NPM that is a separate but attached agency of the Commission on Human Rights (CHR). As the country's National Human Rights Institution (NHRI), established in accordance with the Paris Principles, and as befitting its visitorial mandate under the 1987 Constitution, Executive Order No. 163, s. 1987, and other related laws, is the independent body best suited to oversee the performance of the functions of the NPM of the Philippines vis-à-vis the OPCAT.

The CHR has been conducting unannounced, unhampered and unrestricted visits to places of deprivation of liberty pursuant to its visitorial mandate under Article XIII, Section 18 (4) of the 1987 Constitution; Section 3 (4) of Executive Order No. 163, s. 1987; Section 11 of the Implementing Rules and Regulations of Republic Act No. 9745, otherwise known as the Anti-Torture Act of 2009; and Section 13 of Republic Act No. 10353, otherwise known as the Anti-Enforced or Involuntary Disappearance Act of 2012. However, such visits are mainly investigative or monitoring in nature, not preventive as is required of an NPM.

Establishing an NPM as a separate but an attached agency of the CHR will enhance the CHR's mandate as it will now look into the preventive aspect against torture and other cruel, inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment in places of deprivation of liberty, and help develop policies that will prevent the occurrence of torture and other cruel, inhumane treatment or punishment. It also seeks to provide support in the improvement of places of deprivation of liberty that respect the basic human rights of persons deprived of liberty. This is because while the CHR initially focused only on monitoring visits to places of deprivation of liberty, it has come to realize that torture prevention needs a different and more holistic approach. Torture prevention entails understanding the various causes of torture, whether institutional, normative, political, cultural, or socio-economic, and, correspondingly, addressing such causes through a wide range of actions, such as legal reform, ensuring criminal responsibility and safeguards in detention, fighting against impunity, and ensuring remedies and reparations.

Furthermore, by establishing the NPM as a separate but attached agency of the CHR with its own budget and personnel, this bill would also help delineate between the investigative and preventive aspects of visits to places of deprivation of liberty by the CHR. However, it should be noted that this delineation and establishment of an NPM as a separate but attached agency of the CHR aims to complement, not replace, the CHR's current visitorial mandate by extending its visitorial powers to places of deprivation of liberty outside of its current jurisdiction, such as hospitals and psychiatric institutions.

As of now, the CHR is developing a possible template of the NPM with the CHR as the lead, with representatives from experts and civil society organizations (CSOs) as members. This initiative aims to create a model and a Manual of Operations on how an NPM should be structured and operationalized. Such a structure and operations are embodied in this proposed bill.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
