House Bill No. 6183

EXPLANATORY NOTE

At the present, the main laws on espionage in the Philippines are Commonwealth Act (CA) No. 616 or "An Act to Punish Espionage and Other Offenses Against the National Security" enacted in 1941 and the Revised Penal Code which took effect in 1932.

There is a need to reviews these laws and amend the same to make them adapt to the current situation in light of evolving global security threats, technological advancements, and the changing nature of espionage activities.

The Philippines faces numerous threats from foreign intelligence services, terrorist organizations, and cybercriminals. Recent events have shown that there are alleged spies in the Philippines. Advancement in technology has made cyber espionage, data breaches, and online surveillance pose significant risks to national security and sovereignty.

This bill seeks to address these concerns by amending and augmenting current legal provisions to provide comprehensive protection against espionage and related offenses. By enhancing penalties and updating definitions to align with contemporary security challenges, the legislation aims to bolster the Philippines' ability to preserve and protect its national security interests.

In view of the foregoing, immediate approval of this measure is earnestly requested.
