EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to convert the San Isidro-Bahao Road in the Province of Camarines Sur, into a national road.

Roads are considered as the backbone of one's province's infrastructure as it connects people to goods and services, access to healthcare, social activities, and employment opportunities, and efficient and faster travel to one's workplace and school. In fact, roads is one of the major dictations of a developing city or municipality or province as it promotes their overall development due to their efficiencies on how they reduce transportation costs and travel time.

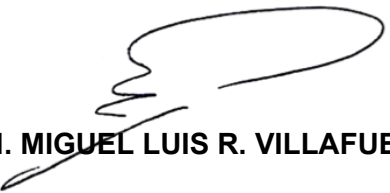

The San Isidro-Bahao Road is a linked road for eight (8) barangays within the Municipality of Libmanan that stretches for a long twenty four kilometers and four hundred twenty four meters (24.424km), which has made the lives of its constituents simple and efficient. It made a pathway for them to deliver goods and services from one barangay to another, and transport people to their destinations especially to their workplaces, schools, and other establishments that help with the monetary flow of the province.

However, just like any other infrastructure, roads are prone to wear and tear that are in need of either maintenance or immediate repair. As much as local government units acknowledge their significance within their jurisdictions for efficient and effective flow of goods and services, and resources, their budgets are limited and need the assistance of the national government to both maintain and repair such roads.

Therefore, in order to ensure the San Isidro-Bahao Road's orderly function in the province of Camarines Sur, the conversion of the said road into a national road is essential.
