TWENTIETH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

House Bill No. 7810

Introduced by: REPRESENTATIVE ERIC L. OLIVAREZ

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The 1987 Constitution mandates the State to ensure that the right to health of the people is protected and promoted. Towards this end, the Constitution mandates the State to adopt an integrated and comprehensive approach to health development, which shall endeavor to make essential goods, health services, and other social services available to all people at an affordable cost.

Diabetes mellitus is a metabolic disorder marked by elevated blood glucose levels and affects millions worldwide. The World Health Organization's 2016 Global Report on Diabetes estimated that 422 million people live with the disease, most in low- and middle-income countries, and it caused about 1.5 million deaths in 2012, along with 2.2 million more from related cardiovascular and other complications.

According to the International Diabetes Federation, in 2024 the Philippines recorded a total of 4,726,300 cases of diabetes in adults which is equivalent to a 7.5% prevalence of diabetes in adults. What is more concerning is the fact that of those Filipino adults afflicted with diabetes in between the ages of 20-79 years old, 53.5% were reported as undiagnosed diabetes thereby increasing the risk of contracting uncontrolled diabetes, which can lead to severe health issues such as blindness, kidney failure, and amputations, increasing healthcare costs and reducing quality of life.¹

Verily, there is an urgent need for increased funding for diabetes prevention and treatment to alleviate the growing burden of diabetes among the populace.

This bill proposes the creation of corporate body to be known as the Philippine Center for Diabetes and Endocrinology (PCDE), under the Department of Health (DOH), to serve as the lead tertiary-level care center in the screening, prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of diabetes.

The PCDE is mandated to establish integrated medical institutions for comprehensive diabetes and endocrine care; conduct nationwide screening and research; and promote continuous training for health professionals.

It is hoped that the creation of a dedicated institution will strengthen the government's ability to meet the challenges presented by the increasing prevalence of diabetes and other endocrine ailments, reduce disparities in specialized care access, improve early detection and management of endocrine disorders, and enhance research and training to support sustainable health-system responses across the country.

In view of the foregoing, the passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
