House Bill No. 8018

EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Commission on Elections (COMELEC) is the primary government agency responsible for the conduct of regular and special elections in the country. Similar to other constitutional commissions, the COMELEC is an independent and fiscally-autonomous body free from political interference or influence from the three branches of government, which makes possible the conduct of free, fair, and honest elections. Nowhere is this intent more apparent than the staggered rotational appointments of its commissioners and chairman, and the guarantee of security of tenure and fiscal autonomy.

This constitutional guarantee of independence, however, has been tempered by Section 55 of the Omnibus Election Code. In particular, Section 55 of the Omnibus Election Code enjoins local government units to provide a suitable place for the office of the provincial election supervisor and his staff and the election registrar and his staff.

Although the purpose may be laudable, it has also given local government units the window of opportunity to compromise conduct of the local COMELEC's functions. In particular, inasmuch as the local COMELEC relies heavily on the LGU for institutional support, this also gives the LGU the opportunity to compromise the local COMELEC's functions, by withholding, delaying or totally depriving it of institutional support. The same provision, which supposedly recognizes the LGU's stake in election administration, lamentably acts as a sword of Damocles, and subjects the local COMELEC to the imminent and ever-present peril of lack of office space, manpower complement and funding for its operations.

In view of the foregoing, immediate passage of this measure is earnestly requested.
