TWENTIETH CONGRESS
First Regular Session

HOUSE BILL NO. 9644

Introduced by Rep. MANUEL “WOWO” L. FORTES, JR.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Access to quality healthcare at the grassroots level is a fundamental component of public health, safety, and overall community well-being. Yet, the barangay health workers (BHWs) who serve at the forefront of this delivery often lack the necessary support and protection of their own welfare. This disparity is not merely a service gap; it reflects a systemic issue in our health infrastructure that underutilizes these critical partners in development.

Medical and social demands on the community require BHWs to serve as advocates, educators, and healthcare providers. Meanwhile, existing policies often fail to account for their voluntary status and the hazards they face. The result is an imbalance where those providing essential services are burdened with high responsibility but limited security.

Therefore, this bill seeks to address this inequity by adopting a rational standard for those rendering primary healthcare. This approach would professionalize their services, provide mandatory honoraria and allowances, and healthcare coverages. By ensuring that BHWs are empowered and their potential is effectively harnessed, the State can better provide fair, dignified, and efficient healthcare access for all.

Moreover, through the approval of this bill, we promote fairness and inclusivity towards Barangay Health Workers, taking a significant step towards ensuring that our healthcare system is responsive to the needs of all Filipinos.

In view of the foregoing, the immediate passage of this bill is earnestly sought.
